

Give teams the industry know-how they need to soar.

*Convenient, virtual sessions with expert
instructors available
for your group*

Things are changing quickly — including employee development needs. LOMA's Learning Live Series makes it easy to bring consistent, reliable, industry education to your organization. Teams learn about and discuss industry-related topics together in our virtual classroom, guided by expert instructors.

Each two-hour session covers a specific topic — delivering high-quality, educational content. In the Adobe Connect classroom, our experienced virtual learning team uses chat pods, poll questions, videos, and application exercises to keep learners active and engaged. We provide the content, instructors, and technology — you simply provide the participants! Learning Live sessions can be used as standalone events or incorporated into existing training programs, adding a broad industry perspective from a trusted source. Topics range from product overviews and how insurers make money, to the customer experience and an introduction to data analytics.
